2015
AJCU-CITM & Libraries Conference
Supporting Jesuit Education - Changing the World One Student at a Time

Please join us in Baltimore May 17 – 20, 2015

AJCU Conference on Information Technology Management & Library Deans/Directors

Loyola University Maryland and the Loyola Notre Dame Library are pleased to host the 30th annual AJCU-CITM conference. This year we are joining technology and library leadership into one gathering in order to share ideas and collaborate.

We invite you to join us as we explore this year's theme: Supporting Jesuit education – changing the world one student at a time. You will spend three days in Baltimore, enjoying both our historic city and the Loyola University Maryland Evergreen campus.

With engaging tracks for libraries, CIOs, CITM, PPM, and TTL, there is something for everyone at AJCU-CITM & Libraries 2015. We're looking forward to diving into these sessions with you, as well as introducing you to the very best of Baltimore during your stay.

We look forward to seeing you in May, as together we examine how we can help support Jesuit education to go forth and set the world on fire!
