Colleges Get Creative For 2011 Earth Day

By RYAN LYTHE

Loyola University Chicago

The efforts of Loyola University Chicago reach well beyond its campus with Chicago’s largest community-based Earth Day event. Known as the North Lake Shore Earth Day event, people young and old are offered the opportunity to learn everything from growing food to creating a community garden. Children can also get in on the fun by learning about seed planting, wild animals, and eating organic.