Museums
August 18, 2011

Loyola University Museum of Art

820 N. Michigan Ave.; 312-915-7600, luc.edu/luma

Loyola's art museum is dedicated to exhibitions that focus on spirituality in art.

Opens Saturday through Oct. 23: "Inscribing the Divine: The Saint John's Bible": Contemporary calligrapher and illuminator Donald Jackson is creating a handwritten Bible — the way the Bible was produced in its first 1,500 years — for the Benedictine monks of St. John's Abbey.