Loyola University Museum of Art
820 N. Michigan Ave.; 312-915-7600, luc.edu/luma

Loyola’s art museum is dedicated to exhibitions that focus on spirituality in art.
Through Oct. 23: “Holiness and the Feminine Spirit: The Art of Janet McKenzie”: The exhibition of work by the Vermont artist that considers her paintings a celebration of people, particularly African-Americans and women, will include McKenzie’s notable “Jesus of the People” (1999).